Introduction

A real estate transaction may be one of the largest investments you’ll ever make. Because the decisions you make when you buy or refinance a home can have effects for years to come, it’s important to take time to learn about the process so you can make good decisions.

You may want to hire a licensed professional to help you with the many steps to buy or refinance a home or piece of property. Before you agree to do business with anyone, however, be sure the individual is qualified and licensed.

Buying or Refinancing a Home or Property

So you’re ready to buy or refinance a home or piece of property. Now what?

If you’ve found the perfect home or property and the seller has accepted your offer, the next steps will most likely be:

- You’ll get a loan from a mortgage lender.
- A professional will inspect and appraise the home or property.
- You’ll choose an individual or business, known as a closing agent, to organize and finalize your real estate transaction.
- You’ll choose a “closing date” to sign paperwork and take ownership of your new home.
- You’ll buy homeowners insurance through a licensed property and casualty insurance agent.
- You’ll decide if you need flood and/or earthquake insurance, which you can buy through a licensed property and casualty agent.
- You’ll decide if you’ll need title insurance, which you can buy through a licensed title agent or company.
- A professional may “survey” the property. A survey is a professional drawing of the property’s boundaries. It also shows where a home is located on the property.
- You may be able to buy a home warranty that covers the mechanical breakdown of individual parts of a home, such as the electrical and plumbing systems. A warranty doesn’t cover the home’s structure, may or may not cover appliances, ends at a specific point in time (for example, one year) and has exclusions and limitations that you should review. Home warranties might not be regulated as insurance in your state.
- A final walk through of the home you’re buying will be scheduled.
- You’ll sign legal paperwork to finalize your new loan.

If you’re refinancing your home or property:

- You’ll get a new loan from a mortgage lender.
- A professional may inspect and appraise your home or property.
- You’ll give the lender information about your homeowners, flood and/or earthquake insurance coverage.
- You’ll decide if you need title insurance, which you can buy from a licensed title agent or company.
- A closing date will be selected.
- You’ll sign legal paperwork to finalize your new loan.

When you buy or refinance a home or piece of property, you’ll need to decide whether to buy title insurance.

What is title insurance? Why do you need it? This guide will answer those questions and more.
What is Title Insurance, and What Does it Cover?

A title documents your legal ownership or interest in property.

Title insurance is an insurance policy that covers past title problems that come up after you buy or refinance a property.

Lost, forged or incorrectly filed deeds, property access issues and liens on a property are just a few of the title problems that could come up after you buy or refinance a home or piece of land.

For example, if you received a letter telling you there’s an unpaid mortgage on the property you just bought, you could submit a claim to your title insurance company. The title insurance company would pay the legal costs to settle the dispute and/or to resolve the problem.

Without title insurance, you might have to pay all of the legal costs to settle the dispute. And if you lose the dispute, you could lose money, the equity you have in your home, and possibly ownership.

Two Types of Title Insurance—Owner’s and Lender’s Policies

There are two types of title insurance policies:

- An Owner’s Policy
- A Lender’s Policy

An owner’s policy protects you for the full price you paid for the home plus legal costs if a past title or ownership issue comes up after you buy your home. An owner’s policy is issued for the amount you paid to buy your home, and the policy will cover you as long as you own an interest in the property. You are not required to purchase an owner’s policy, but if you choose not to, you may lose the money you’ve paid for your home.

If a basic owner’s policy doesn’t cover a specific title issue, often you can add coverage, known as a policy endorsement. For example, if you’re buying a new home and the owner’s policy doesn’t cover claims (often known as a mechanic’s lien) filed by a contractor (often known as a mechanic’s lien), you can add a policy endorsement to ensure you are covered. Some endorsements are free while others can be added for an additional fee.

An enhanced owner’s policy, which has a higher level of coverage than a standard owner’s policy, also may be available in your area. Enhanced owner’s policies cost about 20% more than a standard owner’s policy, but they cover extra risks. An enhanced owner’s policy also may continue to provide coverage after a property has been transferred.

If you borrow money to buy your home or property, your lender is likely to require you to buy a lender’s policy. A lender’s policy only protects the lender if a title or ownership problem comes up after the property is purchased. A lender’s policy is issued for the amount of the mortgage, and the coverage goes down as you pay down your loan. Unlike an owner’s policy, the lender’s policy ends when you pay off your mortgage. You may be expected to pay the premium for a lender’s policy.

Because a lender’s policy only protects the lender from title problems, you’ll also need an owner’s policy if you want to protect yourself.

What Doesn’t Title Insurance Cover?

Title insurance policies do not cover ownership issues that come about after you’ve bought a home.

For example, if your neighbor builds a fence on your property after you’ve bought your home, your title insurance policy will not cover the costs to settle the dispute.
Also, most title insurance policies don’t cover issues such as easements, boundary line disputes, zoning violations and air or mineral rights.

Your title insurance policy may spell out other issues that won’t be covered. And if there’s a title issue specific to the home you’re buying or refinancing, your title policy may not cover it. Ask for a list of what will and will not be covered, and be sure to read your policy.

Who Sells Title Insurance?

Only licensed title insurance companies, agencies and agents can sell title insurance in [INSERT STATE].

Drafting Note: If a state permits other individuals and entities to sell title insurance, this sentence should be amended to include those parties.

You can buy title insurance directly from a title insurance company or a title agent who sells title insurance for a company.

The Right to Choose Your Own Title Agent/Company

You have the right to shop for and choose your provider of title insurance and settlement services

A good time to shop for title insurance is when you choose a real estate agent, and a lender has prequalified you for a loan. You’ll have an idea of the price you can pay for a home/property and a title insurance agent or company can use that information to estimate your title insurance costs.

There are several ways you can find a title insurance agent or company:

- You can ask the sellers who they used when they bought the home.
- You can check the [INSERT NAME OF DOI] website, [INSERT WEB ADDRESS].
- You can check online for title insurance agents, agencies and companies in your area.
- You can ask for recommendations from your real estate agent, attorney, mortgage lender, financial institution or builder.

If your real estate agent, attorney, builder or lender offers to arrange title insurance for you, or suggests you use a specific title agent or company, ask if they have a business arrangement with the title company or agent they’re recommending and if they’ll make money from the referral. Federal law requires real estate professionals, title agents and lenders to tell you about any business arrangements they may have.

Also, beware of statements such as:

- “Everyone charges the same price.”
- “We’ll give you a discount on something else if you use our title agent.”
- “If you choose another title agent, your purchase may be delayed.”

These types of statements may be used to convince you to give up your right to choose a title agent or company, and you may pay more for title insurance than if you had shopped around.

Who Pays for Title Insurance?

If you’re buying a home, who pays for title insurance depends in part on local custom. It may be something, however, that you can negotiate with the seller of the property. When buying a home, be sure to ask your real estate agent what the custom is in your area and if you’ll likely be the one to pay for title insurance.
If you’re refinancing your home, it’ll be your responsibility to buy and pay for the title insurance policy. A title insurance policy is paid for with a one-time premium payment.

What Does Title Insurance Cost?

The cost of title insurance is usually tied to the value of the home.

If you’re buying an owner’s policy, the price of your policy will depend on the home’s selling price.

The price of title insurance also can include more than just insurance. One cost included in the price is a title search. When a title search is conducted, a title agent or company reviews local records, such as deeds, mortgages, wills, divorce decrees, court judgments and tax records looking for any title issues with the property. In [INSERT STATE NAME], a title search must be done before a company can issue a title insurance policy.

If you’re buying a lender’s policy, the price of title insurance will depend on your loan amount.

Ask if You’re Eligible for Discounts

When you buy title insurance, ask if you’re eligible for any discounts.

If there was a previous title policy on the home (because the home changed owners or you’re refinancing), you may get a discount known as a “reissue rate.”

If you decide to buy both an owner’s and lender’s policy, you may get a discount if you buy both policies together.

The Difference Between Title and Homeowners Insurance

Title insurance is different from homeowners insurance.

• Title insurance protects you against past title problems. Homeowners insurance protects you against future issues that cause damage to your home or personal property. Homeowners insurance also limits your personal legal responsibility (or liability) if someone is injured while they’re on your property.
• Licensed title agents and companies sell title insurance. Insurance agents licensed to sell property, and casualty insurance sell homeowners insurance.
• You pay the premium for title insurance with a one-time payment, when you buy or refinance a home. A homeowners insurance policy is paid for on an ongoing basis and is up for renewal each year.
• Homeowners insurance does not protect your ownership in the property and does not replace the need for title insurance.

Questions to Ask Before You Buy Title Insurance

When you shop for title insurance, be sure to ask the title agent or company the following questions:

• How long have you been licensed to sell title insurance in [INSERT STATE]?
• What title insurance company do you sell policies for?
• Are title insurance premiums regulated in [INSERT STATE]?
• Are any discounts available?
• Are you related or affiliated in any way with my real estate agent, mortgage lender, builder, or attorney?
• Will anyone be paid a referral fee or commission or be compensated if I buy title insurance from you or a company you represent?
• In addition to title insurance premiums, what other fees and charges will I pay?
• What policy endorsements are available?
• Do you charge a cancellation fee if I don’t buy title insurance from you after you do a title search?
The Real Estate Closing

The last step to buying or refinancing a home / property is known as the closing.

Shortly after the seller accepts your offer to buy their home or the lender approves your refinancing, a closing date will be set.

A closing can be done in person, electronically or by mail. As part of the closing, you’ll be asked to sign the legal paperwork required to finalize the real estate transaction. On the day of the closing, you (as well as the seller) will be expected to pay any money owed.

If an in person closing is scheduled, expect the closing to last an hour or two. In addition to you, the seller, real estate agent(s), attorney, title agent and lender may attend the closing.

Make sure you understand what you’re being asked to sign.

During the closing, you’ll be signing documents that are legal binding contracts. Take time to understand what they mean. If you don’t understand something, ask someone to explain it to you, or ask for time to contact a trusted friend, family member, attorney or advisor for help.

One document you’ll be asked to review and sign is the closing disclosure. The closing disclosure shows all of the money to be paid to complete the transaction. Some of the costs listed on the closing disclosure will include:

- Outstanding mortgages to be paid.
- Money to be exchanged between the buyer and seller.
- The amount of the new loan(s).
- Loan origination charges.
- Property appraisal fees.
- Credit report fees.
- Real estate agent fees.
- Tax preparation fees.
- Property taxes owed.
- Escrow funds.
- Title insurance premiums.
- Courier fees.
- Settlement or closing fees.
- Closing protection fees.
- Document or recording fees.

Federal law gives you the right to see the closing disclosure at least three business days before closing. It’s highly recommended that you ask for a copy of the closing disclosure ahead of time so you have a chance to review it and ask questions.

If everything isn’t in order by your scheduled closing date, your closing date may be moved to another date.

After the closing, you’ll be given copies of all the documents you signed.
Closing Agents

Closing agents handle real estate closings and coordinate all of the steps required to make the real estate transaction official. They’re responsible for getting mortgage and loan pay-off amounts from the seller’s lender(s) and the amount of property taxes owed. They also give instructions to the buyer and seller, hold money until the home’s title is transferred, prepare documents for the buyer and seller to sign, pay out money owed and file documents with the county recorder, who updates records to show a property has changed owners.

Some title agents do more than just sell title insurance. They also conduct real estate closings by serving as a closing agent. Their responsibilities as a closing agent are separate from what they do as a title agent. Other professionals, such as attorneys, also can be closing agents.

Questions to Ask When You Choose a Closing Agent

When you choose a closing agent, be sure to ask the following questions:

- Can you give me a list of all the fees and charges I would pay if you were my closing agent?
- What fees and charges are negotiable?
- Are your closing staff licensed title insurance agents?
- How and when do you conduct closings?
- Who will handle my closing?
- When will you give me a copy of the settlement statement?
- Do you have references or testimonials available?
- Do you offer closing protection coverage?
- How much does closing protection cost?

Closing Protection Letters

Title insurance doesn’t protect the lender or buyer against mistakes made during the closing, or if money is stolen or paid to the wrong parties. For an added fee, title insurance agents and companies that conduct real estate closings offer closing protection letters. If you buy a closing protection letter, the title insurance company will reimburse you for any money you lose from negligence, fraud, theft of funds or errors the closing agent made. Without this, you’d have to sue the agent to get back any money lost.

If you buy closing protection coverage, be sure to ask for a copy of the closing protection letter for your records.

Drafting Note: States who do not require closing protection should delete this section.

Shop Around for Title Insurance and Closing Services

As rates and fees for title insurance and closing services may vary, you should shop for title insurance and closing services. Use the chart that follows to learn how much you’ll be charged for certain rates, fees and services.

Beware Of Real Estate Wire Fraud Schemes

Money often needs to change hands quickly in a real estate transaction. One way to move money quickly is to have a financial institution wire it. Your real estate broker or agent, the title and closing agent, or an attorney will give you the details you need for a wire transfer.

Criminals can hack into professionals’ email systems to send emails that look as though they are coming from someone you’re working with. The emails can have fake instructions about wiring money for your upcoming closing. If you follow these instructions, your money will go to the scammer’s bank account. If that happens, you could lose your money.

To avoid being a victim of real estate wire fraud, you should:

- Call or personally meet with the professionals who will conduct the closing to learn how the closing will take place and how funds will be transferred.
- Get the names, telephone numbers, and mailing and email addresses for all of the professionals who will be involved with your closing.
- Be suspicious of all telephone or email messages about a change in the closing process. If you get such a message, call the professional you’re working with. Use the contact information they gave you, not the contact information in the message.
- Carefully examine all email addresses and telephone numbers associated with a message about your closing to verify the message really came from an individual you’ve been dealing with.
- Never respond to a message or click on a link if you’re asked to verify or provide bank account information.

What To Do If You Believe You’re The Victim of a Real Estate Wire Fraud Scheme

If you suspect you’re the victim of real estate wire fraud, it’s important to immediately report your suspicions and take the following steps to increase the chances of recovering your money:

1) Contact your bank or wire transfer company to report your suspicions and ask for a wire recall.
2) Ask your bank to notify the financial institution that received your funds.
3) Call your local Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) office and report the crime.
4) File a report with the FBI’s Internet Crime Complaint Center by visiting www.ic3.gov

Drafting note: States who have Fraud units who investigate real estate wire fraud may wish to add a Step 5. Consumers should contact the Department of Insurance.

Final Tips to Remember

- Deal only with licensed professionals who’re in good standing in [INSERT STATE].
- As soon as you make an offer on a house or choose a lender to refinance with, start shopping for title insurance.
- Decide up front who’ll pay for the title insurance policies.
• Whoever buys the title insurance policy has the right to choose the title agent or title company.
• A professional who recommends a title insurance company or agent to you may receive a commission or referral fee.
• Ask the seller which title insurance company they used.
• Ask friends or family who recently bought a home if they would recommend their title agent/company.
• If you buy an owner’s policy, be sure the coverage is equal to the price you paid for your home.
• Comparison shop, and get at least three quotes before you buy title insurance and closing services.
• Ask about available discounts.
• Ask title and closing agents for an itemized list of their fees and charges.
• Ask for a copy of the title commitment at least three weeks before your closing date.
• Know exactly what your title insurance policy will cover.
• If your title agent also will be the closing agent, ask if closing protection coverage is available.
• Ask the closing agent for a settlement statement at least one business day before your scheduled closing.
• Be suspicious of all communications relating there’s been a change to the closing process.
• Knowledge is power, so don’t be afraid to ask questions!
• Read and understand all documents before signing them.
• Request copies of all documents.
• Keep a copy of your title insurance policy for as long as you own your property.
• Immediately report suspected real estate wire fraud.

How to File a Title Insurance Claim

If an issue arises about your home’s title, contact your title insurance company as soon as possible. If you don’t know the name of your title insurance company, check the paperwork you signed when you bought or refinanced your home. You also can contact your title agent or closing agent for help.
