IDENTIFICATION OF ITEM(S) TO CHANGE

Add columns to Life and Fraternal Analysis of Operations and Analysis of Reserves for types of life insurance; separate into individual life, group life, individual annuities, and group annuities. Delete Interest Sensitive Supplement and Annuities Supplements. Add new appendix for Definitions of Lines of Business and move expense allocation instructions from Analysis of Operations to appendices. Renumber all subsequent pages. Delete current Analysis of Operations and Analysis of Reserves in Separate Accounts and replace with proposed revisions.

REASON, JUSTIFICATION FOR AND/OR BENEFIT OF CHANGE**

This will provide regulators with more information on product categories for use in automated analyses and coordinate product lines between schedules and eliminate duplication, where possible. The life and annuity categories are found in SSAP No. 50—Classifications of Insurance or Managed Care Contracts and the Uniform Life, Accident & Health, Annuity and Credit Product Coding Matrix.

NAIC STAFF COMMENTS

Comment on Effective Reporting Date: 2019 was a compromise reached by the Financial Stability (EX) Task Force

Other Comments: Regarding the reporting in the Analysis of Increase in Reserves pages and the tie-ins to Exhibit 5 and/or Exhibit 6, there is a separate referral to the Statutory Accounting Principles (E) Working Group to review the 2017 instruction for the appropriate reporting of riders and consider if it is in conflict with reserving requirements or needs revisions. The result of that project may impact these instructions in the future.

Revised 6/13/2009

ANNUAL STATEMENT INSTRUCTIONS – LIFE AND FRATERNAL (GENERAL ACCOUNT)

ANALYSIS OF OPERATIONS BY LINES OF BUSINESS – INDIVIDUAL LIFE INSURANCE

This exhibit shows Lines 1 through 33 of the Summary of Operations by Line of Business, in part. The sum of the Analysis of Operations for all lines of business (Individual Life, Group Life, Individual Annuities, Group Annuities and Accident and Health) should tie to the Summary of Operation except for those companies reporting deposit type contracts and fraternal lines of business.

A company shall not omit the columns for any lines of business in which it is not engaged.

Include in the premium, benefit, withdrawal or other appropriate captioned lines of this analysis of operations by lines of business, all separate accounts premiums, benefit, withdrawal or other types of transactions that are transferred to or from the Separate Accounts Statement on Line 26. Such transactions are also to be reported as premiums, benefits, withdrawals or other types of transactions in the analysis of operations by lines of business of the Separate Accounts Statement.

Blocks of business in run-off (no new policies issued) as of December 31, 2019, comprising less than five percent (5%) of premiums and less than five percent (5%) of reserve and loans liability, may be grouped with more material blocks. A footnote shall be added at the end of the page indicating when this has occurred and which columns are affected.

If separating Credit Life Insurance into individual and group is a hardship, the reporting entity may combine this line of business on either the individual or group page, and indicate by including a footnote on both pages.

SECTION E STANDARDS AND RULES FOR ALLOCATION OF RECEIPTS AND EXPENSES

1. General Instructions

It is the responsibility of each reporting entity to use only such methods that will produce a suitable and equitable distribution of receipts and expenses by lines of business. The methods of allocation and the application thereof shall be subject to review on examination.

Each reporting entity shall maintain records with sufficient detail to show fully:

Such records shall be classified and indexed in such form as to permit ready identification between the item allocated and the basis upon which it was allocated, and shall be maintained in such a manner as to be readily accessible for examination. These records shall bear a date and shall identify the person responsible for the preparation thereof.

2. Premium Receipts

Premiums or considerations shall be allocated directly, either through the books of account or by memorandum records, to major lines. In the case of insurance on the debit basis, the total premiums may be distributed among the several lines of business on the basis of the relative proportions of premiums in force, properly weighted to reflect premium collection frequency.

Premiums on secondary lines of business which are not allocated directly to such lines of business may be distributed on the basis of: (1) the premiums in force, or (2) actual analyses of premium receipts covering test periods of sufficient length of time to assure the reliability of the sample. When the distribution is made on the basis of premiums in force:

3. Net Investment Income

The cost of granting and servicing premium notes and policy loans and liens shall be allocated to investment expense. The resulting net income on premium notes and policy loans and liens may be distributed to those lines of business that produced such income. In making such distribution, due consideration shall be given to the variation in the interest rate and incidence of expense on such notes, loans and liens.

Net investment income, after adjustment, if any, as permitted by the preceding paragraph shall be distributed to major lines and may be distributed to secondary lines of business in proportion to the mean contract reserves and liabilities or the mean funds of each line of business, after suitable adjustment, if any, on account of policy loans, except that any miscellaneous interest income arising from policy or annuity transactions may be allocated directly to the line of business producing such income.

In lieu of the methods referred to above, a reporting entity may distribute net investment income by an investment year method that recognizes periodic variations in the yield on new investments, and the varying contributions of the various lines to the funds invested. If a year of investment method is used to allocate net investment income by line of business, complete Note 7 of the Notes to Financial Statements.

4. Other Receipts

Reserves and reserve adjustments received from reinsurers shall be allocated directly to the appropriate line of business. All other sundry receipts and adjustments shall be allocated to the appropriate line of business consistent with the nature of the transaction.

5. Commissions

Commissions on premiums and considerations shall be allocated directly to major lines of business. In the case of debit business, the total commissions paid may be distributed among the several lines of business on the basis of the relative proportions of such premiums in force, properly weighted to reflect the commission rates payable.

To the extent practicable, commissions on secondary lines of business shall be allocated directly. Where not practicable, the distribution to such lines of business may be made separately for first-year and renewal commissions in proportion to the respective first-year and renewal premiums for each such line of business.

6. General Expenses, Taxes, Licenses and Fees

In distributing costs to lines of business, each company shall employ those principles and methods that will reasonably reflect the actual incidence of cost by line of business. The relative time spent, the extent of usage and the varying volume of work performed for each line of business shall be considered in distributing cost to major lines of business and, to the extent practicable, to secondary lines. The costs of any unit of activity in performing work for one line of business and only incidentally for other lines may be allocated entirely to the single line of business.

In the application of the principles stated herein, special consideration may be given to a new line of business with respect to the costs of service departments and of executive departments responsible for the general administration of the company to the extent that such costs have not been increased by the addition of such new line of business and to the extent justifiable; special treatment also may be given to combined operations in connection with group business. Operational costs incurred for entering a new line of business, such as calculation of premium rates, preparation and printing of policy forms and rate books, etc., should be allocated directly to the new line of business whether incurred before or after beginning the new line.

In the distribution of a specific category of cost to lines of business, an appropriate index of the activity or activities giving rise to such cost shall be used. Such index should fluctuate with the specific category of cost and be capable of measurement. For example, as illustrations of principles only and not of required procedures:

- (1) Clerical salaries of operating departments may be distributed to lines of business on the basis of time or salary ratios, the former used where approximately the same average rate of compensation is paid to clerks whose salaries are being distributed.
  - (2) The cost of service departments may be distributed to other departments in proportion to the value of the services rendered each department, e.g., the cost of a personnel department may be distributed to other departments on some general basis such as number of clerks; a photostat section on a unit cost basis; or, in the case of a central tabulating unit, on an hourly rate reflecting the cost for each type of machine used.
- (3) Supervisory costs may be distributed to lines of business in the same proportions as the distribution of the salaries of the persons supervised.
- (4) The cost of executive departments responsible for general administration of the company, including the salaries of the executive officer or officers, may be distributed to lines of business in the same proportions as the salaries of all other officers and employees.
- (5) Social Security taxes may be distributed to lines of business in proportion to the corresponding distribution of taxable salaries.

- (6) Departmental rent charges may be made in proportion to the amount of floor space occupied and distributed to lines of business on some appropriate basis, such as salaries.
- (7) Costs, such as meals for employees, telephone, telegraph, postage, office forms, stationery and supplies may be distributed first to departments on the basis of usage or on an appropriate general basis, and then distributed to lines of business on some appropriate basis, such as salaries.
  - (8) In using number of transactions as a basis for distributing cost to lines of business, each type of transaction within an organizational unit may be weighted to reflect its relative cost. The average clerical time or average clerical cost per transaction may be used as a weight or, in special situations such as the approval of death and disability claims, the relative weights may be determined by case studies.

Estimates of time spent on activities may be used in the distribution of costs to lines of business, only where such activities by their nature are not susceptible of objective measurement, or where the cost of making time studies is disproportionate to the expenses being distributed, or where estimates of time are otherwise clearly appropriate. Where such estimates are made, they shall be made by a person or persons familiar with the nature of the activity and shall be reviewed by an executive responsible for expense allocations. General indices such as premium volume, number of policies, and insurance in force shall not be used as bases for distributing costs among major lines of business, except where the incidence of cost is closely related to such general indices, or except where there is no more appropriate basis for measurement. Such general indices may not be used in distributing claim costs to secondary lines of business.

The ratio of investment income to total receipts, the ratio of direct investment expense to total expenses, and any similar formula shall not be used in distributing costs between insurance and investment expense, except where there is no more appropriate basis for distribution.

This exhibit analyzes the development of life policy and contract reserves by showing how the reserve may be traced mathematically from one year-end to the next by taking account of its various theoretical components:

Reinsurance – Ordinarily, it will be satisfactory to compute all items net of reinsurance ceded. However, companies will generally find it more useful to compute gross and reinsurance ceded separately, unless the latter is not material.

Coinsurance – For the ceding company, all items are computed similarly to its own direct business. For the assuming company, all items are included with its direct business and are similarly computed.

Modified Coinsurance - For the ceding company, there is no deduction from reserves for reinsurance ceded.

Yearly Renewable Term Reinsurance – For the ceding company, items are computed on the same basis as its direct business. For the assuming company, all items are included with its direct business and are similarly reported.

A company shall not omit the columns for any lines of business in which it is not engaged. All figures for the ordinary individual or group variable life insurance business of the company, excluding separate accounts items, shall be included in Columns 38 or 79, as applicable.

This analysis applies to items reported in Exhibit 5.

Blocks of business in run-off (no new policies issued) as of December 31, 2019, comprising less than five percent (5%) of premiums and less than five percent (5%) of reserve and loans liability, may be grouped with more material blocks. A footnote shall be added at the end of the page indicating when this has occurred and which columns are affected.

If separating Credit Life Insurance into individual and group is a hardship, the reporting entity may combine this line of business on either the individual or group page, and indicate by including a footnote on both pages.

Supplementary contracts with life contingencies should be reported on the annuities pages. Supplementary contracts without life contingencies should be included in Exhibit 7, Deposit-Type Contracts.

Lines 2 through 6 and Lines 9 through 11 do not include amounts related to the VM-20 Deterministic-/Stochastic portion of the reserves, which are reported on Line 6.1.

An Analysis of Increase in Reserves is done by annual statement line of business, and within each line according to these formula types: insurance, annuity, and contracts with life or disability contingencies. The instructions specify that the various items are either to be derived from basic data or derived by formula. One item is always to be derived as the balancing item in its reserve analysis formula. Thus, the accuracy of the analysis for each line of business and formula type should be verified by the reasonableness of the various balancing items.

The balancing item for life insurance, accidental death benefit, and active life disability reserves is tabular cost. Tabular cost for life insurance can be expressed as the summation of the products of mortality rates times the excess of the face amount over the reserve. Using the tabular cost that was derived in the reserve analysis, the amount of insurance in force, and the reserves, the average mortality rate that is implied by the reserve analysis can be determined. This rate should be reasonable considering the nature of the in force and should show a reasonable progression from year to year.

The balancing item for annuity, supplementary contracts with life contingencies, and disabled life reserves is tabular less actual reserve released. This item reflects the relationship between the mortality and claim termination rates used for the reserves and the corresponding company experience. The level of this item and its variation from year to year should be reasonable in terms of these factors.

ANALYSIS OF INCREASE IN RESERVES DURING THE YEAR – GROUP LIFE INSURANCE

This exhibit analyzes the development of life policy and contract reserves by showing how the reserve may be traced mathematically from one year-end to the next by taking account of its various theoretical components:

Reinsurance – Ordinarily, it will be satisfactory to compute all items net of reinsurance ceded. However, companies will generally find it more useful to compute gross and reinsurance ceded separately, unless the latter is not material.

Coinsurance – For the ceding company, all items are computed similarly to its own direct business. For the assuming company, all items are included with its direct business and are similarly computed.

Modified Coinsurance - For the ceding company, there is no deduction from reserves for reinsurance ceded.

Yearly Renewable Term Reinsurance – For the ceding company, items are computed on the same basis as its direct business. For the assuming company, all items are included with its direct business and are similarly reported.

A company shall not omit the columns for any lines of business in which it is not engaged. All figures for the group variable life insurance business of the company, excluding separate accounts items, shall be included in Column 4 or 6, as applicable.

This analysis applies to items reported in Exhibit 5.

Blocks of business in run-off (no new policies issued) as of December 31, 2019, comprising less than five percent (5%) of premiums and less than five percent (5%) of reserve and loans liability, may be grouped with more material blocks. A footnote shall be added at the end of the page indicating when this has occurred and which columns are affected.

If separating Credit Life Insurance into individual and group is a hardship, the reporting entity may combine this line of business on either the individual or group page, and indicate by including a footnote on both pages.

Supplementary contracts with life contingencies should be reported on the annuities pages. Supplementary contracts without life contingencies should be included in Exhibit 7, Deposit-Type Contracts.

Lines 2 through 6 and Lines 9 through 11 do not include amounts related to the VM-20 Deterministic/Stochastic portion of the reserves, which are reported on Line 6.1.

An Analysis of Increase in Reserves is done by annual statement line of business, and within each line according to these formula types: insurance, annuity, and contracts with life or disability contingencies. The instructions specify that the various items are either to be derived from basic data or derived by formula. One item is always to be derived as the balancing item in its reserve analysis formula. Thus, the accuracy of the analysis for each line of business and formula type should be verified by the reasonableness of the various balancing items.

The balancing item for active life disability reserves is tabular cost. Tabular cost for life insurance can be expressed as the summation of the products of mortality rates times the excess of the face amount over the reserve. Using the tabular cost that was derived in the reserve analysis, the amount of insurance in force, and the reserves, the average mortality rate that is implied by the reserve analysis can be determined. This rate should be reasonable considering the nature of the in force and should show a reasonable progression from year to year.

The balancing item for annuity, supplementary contracts with life contingencies, and disabled life reserves is tabular less actual reserve released. This item reflects the relationship between the mortality and claim termination rates used for the reserves and the corresponding company experience. The level of this item and its variation from year to year should be reasonable in terms of these factors.

Additional Contract Reserves Line 2 A reserve must generally be carried in this line for any contract or block of contracts: with which level premiums are used, or (ii) with respect to which, due to the gross premium structure at issue, the value of future benefits exceeds the value of appropriate future valuation net premiums. A reserve must be carried for any block of contracts for which future gross premiums when reduced by expenses for administration, commissions, and taxes will be insufficient to cover future claims or services. A company that enters the entire active life reserve (other than the reserves required for Line 4) in a single sum must enter such amount in Line 2. Provide a statement as to the valuation standard used in calculating this reserve, specifying reserve bases, interest rates, and methods. Additional Actuarial Reserves – Asset/Liability Analysis Line 3 Include: Premium deficiency reserves. Reserve for Future Contingent Benefits (Active Life Reserve) or Line 4 Line 12 Reserve for Future Contingent Benefits (Claim Reserve) A reserve must be carried in either of these lines or in Exhibit 8, Part 1, Line 3 for any contract that provides for the extension of benefits after termination of the contract or of any insurance thereunder. Such benefits, which actually accrue and are payable at some future date, are predicated on a condition or actual disability which exists at the termination of the insurance and which is usually not known to the insurance entity. These benefits are normally provided by contract provision but may be payable as a result of court decisions or of departmental rulings. This reserve is required in addition to the Present Value of Amounts Not Yet Due on Claims, Line 10. An example of the type of benefit for which a reserve must be carried is the coverage for hospital confinement after the termination of an employee's certificate but prior to the expiration of a stated period. This example is illustrative only and is not intended to limit the reserve to the benefits described. Some individual Accident and Health contracts may also provide benefits similar to those under the Extension of Benefits section of a group contract. ## INSTRUCTIONS FOR ALLOCATION OF RECEIPTS AND EXPENSES RELATED TO ANALYSIS OF OPERATIONS BY LINES OF BUSINESS

SECTION A – PURPOSE

For the purpose of making a suitable and equitable allocation of receipts and expenses as between: (1) lines of business, (2) investment expense and insurance expense, and (3) affiliated or associated companies, reporting entities shall observe the standards and rules hereinafter prescribed.

The primary objective of these instructions is to establish principles (i.e., standards) for allocation of receipts and expenses by reporting entities. It is recognized that the choice of methods employed by any reporting entity of necessity will be dictated by condition peculiar to its size, mode of operation, and the classes of business that it writes. Recognition also is given to the existence of systems of cost analysis that have been developed by reporting entities as a part of overall programs for control of expenses, government requirements and for other collateral purposes, including the allocation of receipts and expenses by lines of business.

SECTION B – DEFINITIONS

Wherever used in these instructions, the following terms shall have the respective meaning hereinafter set forth or indicated, unless the context otherwise requires:

LINE OF BUSINESS

Has the meaning assigned to it by Definitions of Lines of Business Appendix.

DEPARTMENT

Means any administrative unit, such as a division, bureau, section, team or branch office used in departmental cost analysis or under a cost center concept.

OPERATING DEPARTMENT

Means an organizational unit directly engaged in production or servicing of contracts, or investment activities, e.g., policy issue, policy loan, selection, premium collection, etc., as distinguished from a "service department" which performs work for other departments, such as mail, supply, personnel, etc.

SERVICE DEPARTMENT

Has the meaning assigned to it in the definition of operating department.

ACTIVITY

Means the work, or one of several lines of work, carried on within any unit or organizational subdivision of the company.

COST

Means all expenditures incurred in terms of salaries, wages, and other expenses and includes taxes, licenses, and fees.

TIME RATIOS

Means the proportion of total clerical working time devoted to each subdivision of work in an organizational unit.

SALARY RATIOS

Means ratios obtained by weighting the time ratios of individual clerks by the amount of their salary.

SECTION C – INVESTMENT EXPENSE

Distribution of expenses to investment activities shall be made on the same principles as used for subdivision of insurance expense by major line of business. Investment expense (Exhibit 2, Column 5 and Exhibit 3, Column 4) shall include all amounts reported as Real Estate Expense (Exhibit 2, Line 9.1), Investment Expenses Not Included Elsewhere (Exhibit 2, Line 9.2), Real Estate Taxes (Exhibit 3, Line 1) and all other costs incurred in connection with the investing of funds, servicing of investments and the obtaining of investment income, or chargeable against investment income.

SECTION D – STANDARDS AND RULES FOR ALLOCATION OF RECEIPTS AND EXPENSES

1. General Instructions

It is the responsibility of each reporting entity to use only such methods that will produce a suitable and equitable distribution of receipts and expenses by lines of business. The methods of allocation and the application thereof shall be subject to review on examination.

- (1) The system used for allocation of receipts and expenses;
- (2) The actual bases of allocation;
- (3) The actual monetary distribution of the respective items of receipts, salaries, wages, expenses, and taxes to:
  - (a) Units of activity or functions, if any such distribution is made,
  - (b) Lines of business,
  - (c) Companies, and
  - (d) A recapitulation and reconciliation of items (a), (b) and (c) with the company's books of account and annual statement.

Such records shall be classified and indexed in such form as to permit ready identification between the item allocated and the basis upon which it was allocated, and shall be maintained in such a manner as to be readily accessible for examination. These records shall bear a date and shall identify the person responsible for the preparation thereof.

2. Premium Receipts

Premiums or considerations shall be allocated directly, either through the books of account or by memorandum records, to major lines. In the case of insurance on the debit basis, the total premiums may be distributed among the several lines of business on the basis of the relative proportions of premiums in force, properly weighted to reflect premium collection frequency.

Premiums on secondary lines of business which are not allocated directly to such lines of business may be distributed on the basis of: (1) the premiums in force, or (2) actual analyses of premium receipts covering test periods of sufficient length of time to assure the reliability of the sample. When the distribution is made on the basis of premiums in force:

- (1) The in force records shall segregate first-year, single, and renewal premiums,
- (2) The distribution shall be made separately for the first-year and renewal premiums, and
- (3) Adequate controls shall be maintained to assure the accuracy of the in force records.

3. Net Investment Income

The cost of granting and servicing premium notes and policy loans and liens shall be allocated to investment expense. The resulting net income on premium notes and policy loans and liens may be distributed to those lines of business that produced such income. In making such distribution, due consideration shall be given to the variation in the interest rate and incidence of expense on such notes, loans and liens.

Net investment income, after adjustment, if any, as permitted by the preceding paragraph shall be distributed to major lines and may be distributed to secondary lines of business in proportion to the mean contract reserves and liabilities or the mean funds of each line of business, after suitable adjustment, if any, on account of policy loans, except that any miscellaneous interest income arising from policy or annuity transactions may be allocated directly to the line of business producing such income.

In lieu of the methods referred to above, a reporting entity may distribute net investment income by an investment year method that recognizes periodic variations in the yield on new investments, and the varying contributions of the various lines to the funds invested. If a year of investment method is used to allocate net investment income by line of business, complete Note 7 of the Notes to Financial Statements.

4. Other Receipts

Reserves and reserve adjustments received from reinsurers shall be allocated directly to the appropriate line of business. All other sundry receipts and adjustments shall be allocated to the appropriate line of business consistent with the nature of the transaction.

5. Commissions

Commissions on premiums and considerations shall be allocated directly to major lines of business. In the case of debit business, the total commissions paid may be distributed among the several lines of business on the basis of the relative proportions of such premiums in force, properly weighted to reflect the commission rates payable.

To the extent practicable, commissions on secondary lines of business shall be allocated directly. Where not practicable, the distribution to such lines of business may be made separately for first-year and renewal commissions in proportion to the respective first-year and renewal premiums for each such line of business.

6. General Expenses, Taxes, Licenses and Fees

In distributing costs to lines of business, each company shall employ those principles and methods that will reasonably reflect the actual incidence of cost by line of business. The relative time spent, the extent of usage and the varying volume of work performed for each line of business shall be considered in distributing cost to major lines of business and, to the extent practicable, to secondary lines. The costs of any unit of activity in performing work for one line of business and only incidentally for other lines may be allocated entirely to the single line of business.

In the application of the principles stated herein, special consideration may be given to a new line of business with respect to the costs of service departments and of executive departments responsible for the general administration of the company to the extent that such costs have not been increased by the addition of such new line of business and to the extent justifiable; special treatment also may be given to combined operations in connection with group business. Operational costs incurred for entering a new line of business, such as calculation of premium rates, preparation and printing of policy forms and rate books, etc., should be allocated directly to the new line of business whether incurred before or after beginning the new line.

In the distribution of a specific category of cost to lines of business, an appropriate index of the activity or activities giving rise to such cost shall be used. Such index should fluctuate with the specific category of cost and be capable of measurement. For example, as illustrations of principles only and not of required procedures:

(1) Clerical salaries of operating departments may be distributed to lines of business on the basis of time or salary ratios, the former used where approximately the same average rate of compensation is paid to clerks whose salaries are being distributed.

- (2) The cost of service departments may be distributed to other departments in proportion to the value of the services rendered each department, e.g., the cost of a personnel department may be distributed to other departments on some general basis such as number of clerks; a photostat section on a unit cost basis; or, in the case of a central tabulating unit, on an hourly rate reflecting the cost for each type of machine used.
- Supervisory costs may be distributed to lines of business in the same proportions as the distribution of the salaries of the persons supervised.
- (4) The cost of executive departments responsible for general administration of the company, including the salaries of the executive officer or officers, may be distributed to lines of business in the same proportions as the salaries of all other officers and employees.
- (5) Social Security taxes may be distributed to lines of business in proportion to the corresponding distribution of taxable salaries.
- (6) Departmental rent charges may be made in proportion to the amount of floor space occupied and distributed to lines of business on some appropriate basis, such as salaries.
- (7) Costs, such as meals for employees, telephone, telegraph, postage, office forms, stationery and supplies may be distributed first to departments on the basis of usage or on an appropriate general basis, and then distributed to lines of business on some appropriate basis, such as salaries.
- (8) In using number of transactions as a basis for distributing cost to lines of business, each type of transaction within an organizational unit may be weighted to reflect its relative cost. The average clerical time or average clerical cost per transaction may be used as a weight or, in special situations such as the approval of death and disability claims, the relative weights may be determined by case studies.

Estimates of time spent on activities may be used in the distribution of costs to lines of business, only where such activities by their nature are not susceptible of objective measurement, or where the cost of making time studies is disproportionate to the expenses being distributed, or where estimates of time are otherwise clearly appropriate. Where such estimates are made, they shall be made by a person or persons familiar with the nature of the activity and shall be reviewed by an executive responsible for expense allocations. General indices such as premium volume, number of policies, and insurance in force shall not be used as bases for distributing costs among major lines of business, except where the incidence of cost is closely related to such general indices, or except where there is no more appropriate basis for measurement. Such general indices may not be used in distributing claim costs to secondary lines of business.

The ratio of investment income to total receipts, the ratio of direct investment expense to total expenses, and any similar formula shall not be used in distributing costs between insurance and investment expense, except where there is no more appropriate basis for distribution.

ANNUAL STATEMENT INSTRUCTIONS - LIFE AND FRATERNAL (SEPARATE ACCOUNT)

ANALYSIS OF OPERATIONS BY LINES OF BUSINESS – INDIVIDUAL LIFE INSURANCE

This exhibit shows Lines 1 through 17 of the Summary of Operations by Line of Business, in part. The sum of the Analysis of Operations for all lines of business (Individual Life, Group Life, Individual Annuities, Group Annuities and Accident and Health) should tie to the Summary of Operation-except for those companies reporting deposit type contracts.

A company shall not omit the columns for any lines of business in which it is not engaged.

Blocks of business in run-off (no new policies issued) as of December 31, 2019, comprising less than five percent (5%) of premiums and less than five percent (5%) of reserve and loans liability, may be grouped with more material blocks. A footnote shall be added at the end of the page indicating when this has occurred and which columns are affected.

Supplementary contracts with life contingencies should be reported on the annuities pages. Supplementary contracts without life contingencies should be included in Exhibit 4, Deposit-Type Contracts.

Riders/Endorsements/Floaters:

If a rider, endorsement or floater acts like a separate policy with separate premium, deductible and limit, and has benefits that are not tied to the value or benefits of the underlying contract, then it is to be recorded on the same line of business as if it were a stand-alone policy regardless of whether it is referred to as a rider, endorsement or floater. Otherwise, the rider, endorsement or floater should be reported on the same line of business as the base policy. Include incidental benefits such as total and permanent disability (including both waivers of premium and disability income benefits), accidental death benefits, accidental death and dismemberment benefits, etc., in the same lines of business as the contracts with which they are associated.

Column 1 – Total

Column 2 – Industrial Life

Does not apply to Separate Accounts.

Column 10 – Credit Life

ANALYSIS OF OPERATIONS BY LINES OF BUSINESS – GROUP LIFE INSURANCE

This exhibit shows Lines 1 through 17 of the Summary of Operations by Line of Business, in part. The sum of the Analysis of Operations for all lines of business (Individual Life, Group Life, Individual Annuities, Group Annuities and Accident and Health) should tie to the Summary of Operation-except for those companies reporting deposit type contracts.

A company shall not omit the columns for any lines of business in which it is not engaged.

Blocks of business in run-off (no new policies issued) as of December 31, 2019, comprising less than five percent (5%) of premiums and less than five percent (5%) of reserve and loans liability, may be grouped with more material blocks. A footnote shall be added at the end of the page indicating when this has occurred and which columns are affected.

Supplementary contracts with life contingencies should be reported on the annuities pages. Supplementary contracts without life contingencies should be included in Exhibit 4, Deposit-Type Contracts.

Riders/Endorsements/Floaters:

If a rider, endorsement or floater acts like a separate policy with separate premium, deductible and limit, and has benefits that are not tied to the value or benefits of the underlying contract, then it is to be recorded on the same line of business as if it were a stand-alone policy regardless of whether it is referred to as a rider, endorsement or floater. Otherwise, the rider, endorsement or floater should be reported on the same line of business as the base policy. Include incidental benefits such as total and permanent disability (including both waivers of premium and disability income benefits), accidental death benefits, accidental death and dismemberment benefits, etc., in the same lines of business as the contracts with which they are associated.

This exhibit analyzes the development of life policy and contract reserves by showing how the reserve may be traced mathematically from one year-end to the next by taking account of its various theoretical components:

Reinsurance Ordinarily, it will be satisfactory to compute all items net of reinsurance ceded. However, companies will generally find it more useful to compute gross and reinsurance ceded separately, unless the latter is not material.

Coinsurance For the ceding company, all items are computed similarly to its own direct business. For the assuming company, all items are included with its direct business and are similarly computed.

Modified Coinsurance For the ceding company, there is no deduction from reserves for reinsurance ceded.

Vearly Renewable Term Reinsurance For the ceding company, items are computed on the same basis as its direct business. For the assuming company, all items are included with its direct business and are similarly reported.

A company shall not omit the columns for any lines of business in which it is not engaged. All figures for the ordinary individual or group variable life insurance business of the company, excluding separate accounts items, shall be included in Columns 8 or 9, as applicable.

This analysis applies to items reported in Exhibit 35; line 0199999—life insurance, line 0499999—accidental death benefits, and any miscellaneous individual life insurance reserves from line 0799999.

Blocks of business in run-off (no new policies issued) as of December 31, 2019, comprising less than five percent (5%) of premiums and less than five percent (5%) of reserve and loans liability, may be grouped with more material blocks. A footnote shall be added at the end of the page indicating when this has occurred and which columns are affected.

If separating Credit Life Insurance into individual and group is a hardship, the reporting entity may combine this line of business on either the individual or group page, and indicate by including a footnote on both pages.

Supplementary contracts with life contingencies should be reported on the annuities pages. Supplementary contracts without life contingencies should be included in Exhibit 74, Deposit-Type Contracts.

Lines 2 through 65 and Lines 9 through 11 do not include amounts related to the VM-20 Deterministic/Stochastic portion of the reserves, which are reported on Line 65.1.

Operations

An Analysis of Increase in Reserves is done by annual statement line of business, and within each line according to these formula types: insurance, annuity, and contracts with life or disability contingencies. The instructions specify that the various items are either to be derived from basic data or derived by formula. One item is always to be derived as the balancing item in its reserve analysis formula. Thus, the accuracy of the analysis for each line of business and formula type should be verified by the reasonableness of the various balancing items.

The balancing item for life insurance, accidental death benefit, and active life disability reserves is tabular cost. Tabular cost for life insurance can be expressed as the summation of the products of mortality rates times the excess of the face amount over the reserve. Using the tabular cost that was derived in the reserve analysis, the amount of insurance in force, and the reserves, the average mortality rate that is implied by the reserve analysis can be determined. This rate should be reasonable considering the nature of the in force and should show a reasonable progression from year to year.

The balancing item for annuity, supplementary contracts with life contingencies, and disabled life reserves is tabular less actual reserve released. This item reflects the relationship between the mortality and claim termination rates used for the reserves and the corresponding company experience. The level of this item and its variation from year to year should be reasonable in terms of these factors.

ANALYSIS OF INCREASE IN RESERVES DURING THE YEAR – GROUP LIFE INSURANCE

This exhibit analyzes the development of life policy and contract reserves by showing how the reserve may be traced mathematically from one year-end to the next by taking account of its various theoretical components.

Reinsurance Ordinarily, it will be satisfactory to compute all items net of reinsurance ceded. However, companies will generally find it more useful to compute gross and reinsurance ceded separately, unless the latter is not material.

Coinsurance For the ceding company, all items are computed similarly to its own direct business. For the assuming company, all items are included with its direct business and are similarly computed.

Modified Coinsurance For the ceding company, there is no deduction from reserves for reinsurance ceded.

Yearly Renewable Term Reinsurance For the ceding company, items are computed on the same basis as its direct business. For the assuming company, all items are included with its direct business and are similarly reported.

A company shall not omit the columns for any lines of business in which it is not engaged. All figures for the group variable life insurance business of the company, excluding separate accounts items, shall be included in Column 4.

This analysis applies to items reported in Exhibit 53.

Blocks of business in run-off (no new policies issued) as of December 31, 2019, comprising less than five percent (5%) of premiums and less than five percent (5%) of reserve and loans liability, may be grouped with more material blocks. A footnote shall be added at the end of the page indicating when this has occurred and which columns are affected.

If separating Credit Life Insurance into individual and group is a hardship, the reporting entity may combine this line of business on either the individual or group page, and indicate by including a footnote on both pages.

Supplementary contracts with life contingencies should be reported on the annuities pages. Supplementary contracts without life contingencies should be included in Exhibit 74, Deposit-Type Contracts.

Operations.

An Analysis of Increase in Reserves is done by annual statement line of business, and within each line according to these formula types: insurance, annuity, and contracts with life or disability contingencies. The instructions specify that the various items are either to be derived from basic data or derived by formula. One item is always to be derived as the balancing item in its reserve analysis formula. Thus, the accuracy of the analysis for each line of business and formula type should be verified by the reasonableness of the various balancing items.

The balancing item for life insurance, accidental death benefit, and active life disability reserves is tabular cost. Tabular cost for life insurance can be expressed as the summation of the products of mortality rates times the excess of the face amount over the reserve. Using the tabular cost that was derived in the reserve analysis, the amount of insurance in force, and the reserves, the average mortality rate that is implied by the reserve analysis can be determined. This rate should be reasonable considering the nature of the in force and should show a reasonable progression from year to year.

The balancing item for annuity, supplementary contracts with life contingencies, and disabled life reserves is tabular less actual reserve released. This item reflects the relationship between the mortality and claim termination rates used for the reserves and the corresponding company experience. The level of this item and its variation from year to year should be reasonable in terms of these factors.

ANALYSIS OF INCREASE IN RESERVES DURING THE YEAR – INDIVIDUAL ANNUITIES

This exhibit analyzes the development of life policy and contract reserves by showing how the reserve may be traced mathematically from one year-end to the next by taking account of its various theoretical components.

Reinsurance Ordinarily, it will be satisfactory to compute all items net of reinsurance ceded. However, companies will generally find it more useful to compute gross and reinsurance ceded separately, unless the latter is not material.

Coinsurance For the ceding company, all items are computed similarly to its own direct business. For the assuming company, all items are included with its direct business and are similarly computed.

Modified Coinsurance For the ceding company, there is no deduction from reserves for reinsurance ceded.

Yearly Renewable Term Reinsurance For the ceding company, items are computed on the same basis as its direct business. For the assuming company, all items are included with its direct business and are similarly reported.

A company shall not omit the columns for any lines of business in which it is not engaged.

This annuities analysis applies to items reported in Exhibit 53 that are not life insurance products.

Blocks of business in run-off (no new policies issued) as of December 31, 2019, comprising less than five percent (5%) of premiums and less than five percent (5%) of reserve and loans liability, may be grouped with more material blocks. A footnote shall be added at the end of the page indicating when this has occurred and which columns are affected.

Supplementary contracts with life contingencies should be reported on the annuities pages. Supplementary contracts without life contingencies should be included in Exhibit 74, Deposit-Type Contracts.

Lines 2 through 5 and Lines 89 through 1011 do not include amounts related to the VM 21/22 Deterministic/Stochastic portion of the reserves, which are reported on Line 5.1.

Refer to SSAP No. 61R—Life, Deposit-Type and Accident and Health Reinsurance for accounting guidance.

- with which level premiums are used, or
- (ii) with respect to which, due to the gross premium structure at issue, the value of future benefits exceeds the value of appropriate future valuation net premiums.

A reserve must be carried for any block of contracts for which future gross premiums when reduced by expenses for administration, commissions, and taxes will be insufficient to cover future claims or services.

A company that enters the entire active life reserve (other than the reserves required for Line 4) in a single sum must enter such amount in Line 2. Provide a statement as to the valuation standard used in calculating this reserve, specifying reserve bases, interest rates, and methods.

Line 3 Additional Actuarial Reserves – Asset/Liability Analysis

> Include: Premium deficiency reserves.

Reserve for Future Contingent Benefits (Active Life Reserve) or

> A reserve must be carried in either of these lines or in Exhibit 8, Part 1, Line 3 for any contract that provides for the extension of benefits after termination of the contract or of any insurance thereunder. Such benefits, which actually accrue and are payable at some future date, are predicated on a condition or actual disability which exists at the termination of the insurance and which is usually not known to the insurance entity. These benefits are normally provided by contract provision but may be payable as a result of court decisions or of departmental rulings. This reserve is required in addition to the Present Value of Amounts Not Yet Due on Claims, Line 10.

An example of the type of benefit for which a reserve must be carried is the coverage for hospital confinement after the termination of an employee's certificate but prior to the expiration of a stated period. This example is illustrative only and is not intended to limit the reserve to the benefits described. Some individual Accident and Health contracts may also provide benefits similar to those under the Extension of Benefits section of a group contract.
