

The Journal of Insurance Regulation is seeking candidates for editor. The Journal of Insurance Regulation (JIR) is a forum for opinion and discussion of major regulatory and public policy issues in insurance. While the JIR is sponsored by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC), it is editorially independent. The JIR strives to make state insurance regulators more aware of high-quality research occurring in the regulatory arena. The JIR editor(s) work with Center for Insurance Policy and Research (CIPR) staff and the JIR Editorial Review Board to ensure all journal content provides true benefit to its readers and is of the utmost quality. CIPR staff provides significant publishing and administrative support in the production, copy-editing, and marketing of the JIR.

The editor(s) is/are responsible for:

- Ensuring a minimum of 10 high-quality articles/year are published in the JIR
- Coordinating the peer-review process with the editorial review board
- Coordinating with authors including soliciting new authors and maintaining relationships with previous authors
- Selecting editorial review board members
- Coordinating with CIPR staff on publishing, marketing, and content strategies
- Participating in the CIPR Advisory Council and annual JIR end of year event
- Promoting the JIR to peers and colleagues

Interested candidates should prepare an application packet that includes:

- A current vita
- A three-to-five page proposal summarizing:
  - Your qualifications for the position
  - Your interest in insurance regulatory research and knowledge of the NAIC
  - Your vision for the JIR

Applicants should send materials to Jeff Czajkowski, Director of CIPR and Eryn Campbell, Research Library Manager at cipr@naic.org by June 15, 2023.
